INTERESTED IN A COMPARISON OF UNIVERSITIES...? VISIT THE QILT WEBSITE

The Government has a variety of surveys that are used to compare various Universities and higher education providers. You can use the QILT (Quality Indicators for Learning and Teaching) website to make comparisons about various Universities if you want information about them.

Home \(qilt.edu.au\)

Quality Indicators for Learning and Teaching

QILT are a suite of government endorsed surveys for higher education, across the student life cycle from commencement to employment. QILT makes available robust, nationally consistent performance data for Australian higher education, helping drive quality improvement.

All Australian higher education institutions are eligible to participate in QILT. Currently, all 42 Australian universities and around 90 non-university higher education providers take part in the surveys.

QILT is funded by the Australian Government Department of Education. The Social Research Centre administers the QILT surveys and associated QILT resources, including this website.

The screenshot shows the QILT website homepage with a dark teal header. The navigation menu includes: About, Surveys, Data, Resources, Survey participants, Compare institutions, and a yellow 'Provider Portal Login / Register' button. The main content area features a large heading 'Using the student voice to improve higher education' and a sub-heading 'The Quality Indicators for Learning and Teaching (QILT) are a suite of government endorsed surveys for higher education, across the student life cycle from commencement to employment.' Below this, it states 'QILT makes available robust, nationally consistent performance data for Australian higher education, helping drive quality improvement.' Three navigation buttons are visible: 'Surveys', 'Latest reports', and 'Resources'. On the right side, there are three links: 'Transparency in Higher Education Expenditure', 'Graduate incomes data', and 'Compare institutions', each with a brief description. At the bottom, there are four white boxes with colored accents, each describing a survey: 'Student Experience Survey (SES)', 'Graduate Outcomes Survey (GOS)', 'Graduate Outcomes Survey - Longitudinal (GOS-L)', and 'Employer Satisfaction Survey (ESS)'.

How to Keep to a Budget While at University

If the thought of drawing up a spreadsheet or tracking your purchases makes you cringe, you may just need to grin and bear it. It can be helpful to map out your major weekly, monthly or yearly expenses in advance (car insurance, rent and petrol, for example) and see how these fit in with your savings — especially if they are clumped together in one month, or worse, in one week. Setting aside an amount for emergencies means that if you're suddenly hit with an unexpected expense, such as a large phone bill, you will be more prepared. As you plan your budget, this is a great time to think about any areas where you can cut back to save money; while expenses such as rent are a necessity, weekly outings and designer clothes are not.
